The Most Holy Trinity—Year C/2

Glory be . . .

Today our Easter season closes with the feast of the Holy Trinity – the mystery that is central to our faith. We celebrate our trust in God who is three persons: God the Father, the Creator of all; Jesus, God's Word made flesh; and the Spirit who teaches and guides us. Three in One and One in Three – we offer them our praise and glory.

The First Reading tells of the glory of creation, as Wisdom herself rejoices in the unfolding of God's plan for the natural world we now inhabit.

The Psalm continues the theme of joy and praise for creation, reminding us of the power over all living things that God has given humankind, and the responsibility that this brings. In the Second Reading, St Paul speaks of how we, through the love of Jesus, are at peace with God and will have a share in his glory. Because of this, when times of suffering come to us, we will find the patience to persevere and continue to have hope in the love of God.

In the Gospel, Jesus seeks to reassure the disciples that even when he is no longer with them, they will not be facing the future alone. They – and we – will always have the Spirit of truth as teacher and guide, helping us to see and hear the word of God in Christ Jesus every day of our lives.
Because of the love poured out on us, we are called to show that love to the world and to everyone we meet. This week we pray, in the words of the prophet Micah, for the grace to always do justice, act kindly, and walk humbly with our God. We also pray for the peace of the world, and especially for the people of Ukraine.

GOSPEL John 16: 12–15 REFLECTION

Mindful of this feast of the Holy Trinity, I begin my prayer by making a very slow, thoughtful sign of the cross. Perhaps this is a gesture I often make without really thinking … but today I take time to ponder each person of the Trinity. I prepare myself for prayer in whatever way works best for me.
In time, I slowly read through the Gospel a number of times, savouring the words, and noticing where I find myself drawn. I take my time – revisiting the words or phrases that particularly speak to me. I invite my creator, who is God the Father ... the Word made flesh who is my saviour Jesus Christ ... and the Holy Spirit, bringer of light and wisdom ... to enlighten my heart and mind as I continue to ponder the mystery of their unity.

I may want to imagine myself now standing alongside the disciples, looking on as Jesus speaks. Perhaps at first I find his words too much to comprehend fully. Then Jesus speaks directly to me, reminding me that I share, with him, the knowledge of what is to happen in the days and weeks ahead ... the horror of his death on the cross, and the glory of his resurrection and ascension into heaven. How do I feel now as I ponder what I myself believe to be that truth brought by the Spirit, glorifying Jesus and the Father?

As I begin to draw my prayer to a close, I ask myself how my beliefs influence the way I am living my life now. Do my actions always bear witness to the love I have been given? Do others see the love of God through me? In faith and humility, I ask for the graces and blessings I need to always bear true witness to the glory of the Father, Son and Spirit.

Stay Safe & Well
Fr Joseph

The Pope has called on Catholics to discern a response to the ecological crisis. Laudato Si' defines seven goals, which are guiding the church's response.

Goal 1 - Response to the Cry of the Earth
Goal 2 - Response to the Cry of the Poor
Goal 3 - Ecological Economics
Goal 4 - Adoption of Sustainable Lifestyles
Goal 5 - Ecological Education
Goal 6 - Ecological Spirituality
Goal 7 - Community Resilience and Empowerment

These goals are diverse and their holistic approach is designed to support a spiritual and cultural revolution as we strive for total sustainability in the spirit of integral ecology. But being green or green solutions are only one part of Laudato Si' which is more holistically about integral ecology. Integral ecology refers to an integrated approach to political, social, economic, and environmental problems. For more information: https://brisbanecatholic.org.au/
